UK 2016

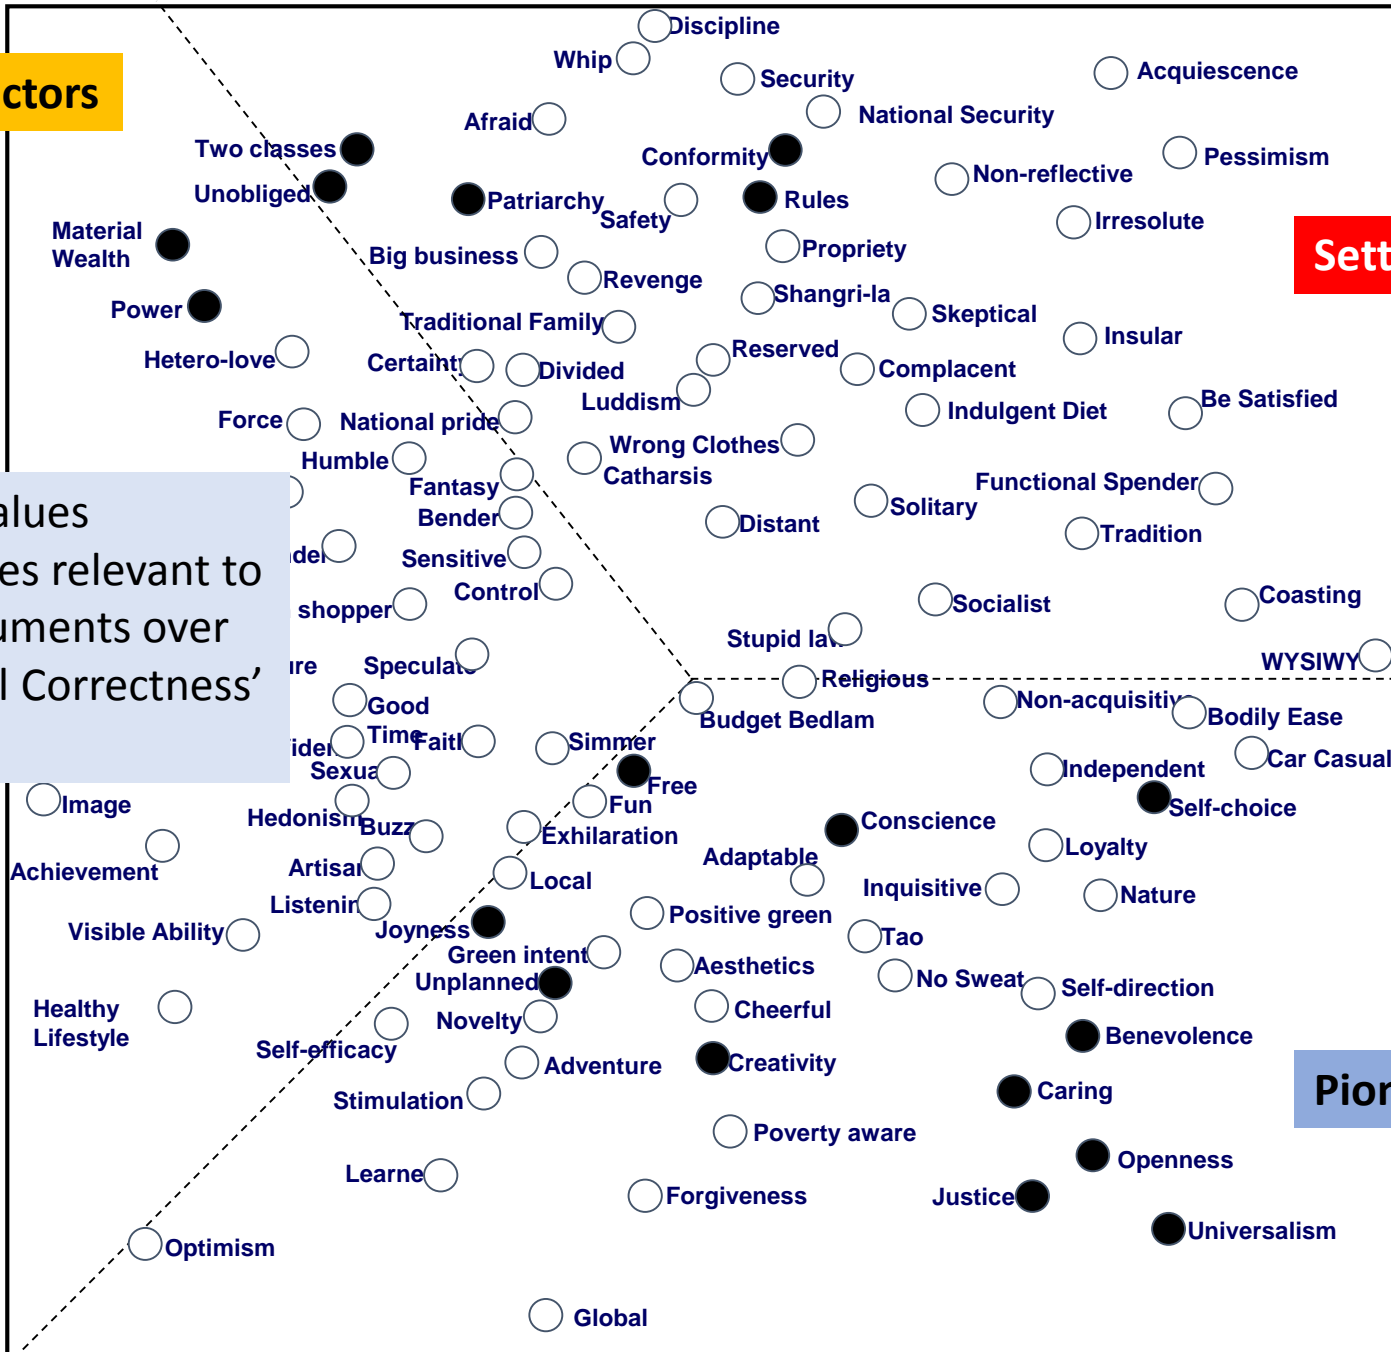

In 1973 Britain was mainly a Settler society. By 2016 the Settlers were a minority of 25%. So when Pioneers started to advocate and campaign for minority rights for ethnic groups and other minorities, Settlers who have a strong attachment to familiar culture, gradually began to feel excluded and forgotten. It set the context for a clash of values over the 2016 Referendum. See also 'Values Story of the Brexit Split, Part 1'
